OPERATIVES STRIKE AT BROGAN MILLS

Walk Out in Anticipation of Management's Proposal to Close on the 27th.

Anderson Special to Charleston News and Courier, Sept. 14.—A strike in on at the Brogan Cotton Mills, manufacturers of print cloth goods. Machinery in all departments is idle. Monday afternoon the management posted a notice to the effect that the mills would close on the 27th for an indefinite period. No cause was assigned. Several days ago four employees were discharged and when the management refused to reinstate them, representatives of the American Federation of Labor came here to make an investigation. The operatives declare that the management expected a strike and anticipated it by deciding to close down. They state that no strike was planned but to anticipate the mill management's action and in order that the help might receive assistance from the labor union during idleness a strike was ordered for today. The help, according to agreement, would not receive financial aid while the mill is closed otherwise than by a strike. It is stated officially that the management concluded to shut down because of the scarcity of dye stuffs and the high prices of same, and because of trade conditions. The mills here have a supply of dye stuffs but wish to conserve them until prices for colored goods advance to prices in keeping with the cost of the dye stuffs. The Brogan mills employ 575 operatives and 3,000 persons are affected. The weekly payroll is $4,000.

Busy-Bodies and Gossip-Mongers. The Federalburg (Md.) Courier.

Every community is cursed by a class of people who make it their business to attend to everybody's business but their own. Such people are the meanest specimens of depraved humanity which an all-wise Providence permits to exist on this green earth.—Middletown Valley Register.

There is, as we all know, but one of two motives in the minds of these persons whose noses are forever poking into other affairs—to detract from some one's good reputation or to be thought knowalls. As crows feed on carrion, so do busy bodies and meddlers in other men's matters fatten on gossip and conjecture, on the mysterious innuendo and the distorted tale. Half truths are insinuations and bold face lies and misrepresentations are the only gratuities freely dispensed by these contemptible gossip-mongers. They are profligate with invented or amplified "news" and with glee and sinister design they retail every bit of scandal they can possibly cram into their big and ever open ears. Once in the process of padding and of distortion and of magnifying begins, while in the meantime the oiling of the tongue mechanism is thoroughly attended to. Everything is ready and all that is needed is a willing listener—often only too easy to find. Plantus had it about right when he said: "Those men who carry about and who listen to accusations should all be hanged * * *—the carriers by their tongues, the listeners by their ears." Both are in the same category and each is as contemptible as the other.

"He that shall rail against his absent friends,
Or hears them scandalized and not defend;
Sports with their fame, and speaks what'er he can,
And only to be thought a witty man;
Tells tales, and brings his friends in disesteem;
That man's a knave—be sure beware of him."

The Health of Children. Spartanburg Herald.

We quote from one section of the creed of the Southern Sociological congress, which is to hold its next meeting in New Orleans early next year: "That the death of children is a defeat of God's purpose, and their health—physical, mental and moral—should be a primary function and responsibility of the church."

The general purpose of this organization is: to study and improve the social, civic and economic conditions of the South. Two years ago there was started in this city a little undertaking that has as its one motive the conservation of the health of the little children of this immediate vicinity. This undertaking resulted in establishing at Saluda, N. C., at the top of the mountains nearest Spartanburg, a baby hospital. It was maintained successfully the first year and has just closed its second year even more successfully, from the standpoint of treating and healing all children, than the first; but from a financial point of view it has not prospered and winds up the season in debt. This, we feel, is only a temporary embarrassment, for we have that faith in the charity of the people of this city that makes us confident that such a cause will not suffer, but will be supported as it should be, and so be encouraged that it will be of even greater service in the years to come.

Its report, soon to be submitted to the public, will show what it has accomplished, as well as facts and figures can show such things, but in relief of suffering children, and the lifting of care and anxiety from the hearts of mothers, there is no way to measure the good that has been done.

The Herald believes the people of Spartanburg have taken the lead in a most worthy and important cause in the establishment of this baby hospital in the mountains and that they will be joined in the next few years by other communities; therefore, we unhesitatingly appeal to them at this time to give it that aid so much needed.

Universal Doctrine.

To be happy at home is the ultimate result of all ambition, the end to which every enterprise and labor tends and of which every desire prompts the prosecution.—Samuel Johnson.

A Wise Prophet.

It is worthy of note that not a sign or symptom of bitterness is being displayed in the prohibition campaign now under way in the state. The liquor question is being discussed on its merits, and is not being taken up and made the property of any political faction. Citizens of South Carolina, regardless of any factional affiliation that they may possess, are seeing the liquor question in its true light, and like the citizens of so many other states are going to roll up a tremendous majority against the evil.—Chester Reporter.
